

Justicar Report:

I bid greetings to the Imperial Estates. This is my report on judicial proceedings. My Emperor and Empress assigned me to be the Imperial Justicar for the East Coast. During that time, I was given the responsibility of ruling on an appeal of the Case of Sir Cameron against Sir Pavo.

I gave advice to several members of the Empire on the way to write out a complaint. I advised that it is easy to go over complaints when the Infraction and charge is noted above the account of each count of the charges.

Case of Sir Cameron vs. Sir Pavo

A complaint was filed in January to the Imperial Justicar Sir Polonius. After a long and drawn out series of appeals and a switch in Justicars to hear the appeals from Sir Polonius to Sir Johan von Hohenstaufen, the complaints were found to not have merit. The Imperial Crown overturned the finding of merit based on appeal from the prosecution.

I apologize to the Empire as one of the appeals would not have taken place if I had been more detailed in moving data between computers. For that I deeply apologize.

After the discussions during the Imperial Estate meeting, His Imperial Majesty attempted to end the case before trial. This office respectfully informed the Emperor that he could not simply end a case that has been found to have merit. Sir Cameron, showed good faith and agreed the drop the charges so long as a statement would be put into the Minutes. The Imperial Crowns were happy for that.

The minutes were released without that the statement. I was informed of this and called the chancellor who agreed to release an addendum.

Case of Sir Ian McDonald vs. Sir Sivax:

This case was brought up to the Imperial Level but was sent down to the local level.

Pending cases:

There are a number of cases that are about to be found with or without merit. These cases came up in the last month. I have started to keep the new administration in the loop of communication to ensure an easier turn over.

Civil Courts:

After the Case of Sir Cameron vs. Sir Pavo, a civil court ruling on the validity of the Statute of limitations will be held on Sunday of the Imperial Estate Meeting in November.

I have been honored by the chance to serve the People of the Empire; I hope my help has been adequate. I thank My Emperor and Empress for their faith.

Ich Dien

His Grace Johan "Warhammer" von Hohenstaufen.
