Returned

Albion:

Physiker, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Azure estoily argent, a caduceus Or surmounted by a lion's face argent.

Returned for excessive layering. See Policies and Precedents (citing 4 as an excessive number of layers.) This device has the field, the estoiles, the caduceus, and the lion's face. Although it has been stated that the caduceus is in fact enfiling (passing through) the lion's face, rendering them on the same "layer," it is impossible to render that on a two-dimensional representation. The appearance of the caduceus being surmounted by the lion's face would be identical to the presented device. Thus, this must be considered excessive layering.

Ministry of Archery, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Azure estoily argent, a sheaf of arrows Or surmounted by a lion's face argent langued gules.

Returned for excessive layering. See above device.

Ministry of Arts and Science, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Azure estoily argent, a quill Or surmounted by a lion's face argent maintaining in its mouth a harp Or.

Returned for excessive layering. See above device.

Ministry of War and Joust, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Azure estoily argent, two halberds in saltire Or surmounted by a lion's face argent maintaining in its mouth a wand fleury fesswise argent.

Returned for excessive layering. See above device.

Hospitaller, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Azure estoily argent, a lion's face argent issuant from an open chest Or.

Returned for excessive layering. See above device. As well, returned for non-period style.

Sovereign of Arms, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Azure estoily argent, a lion's face argent enfiled by a cross throughout Or.

Enfiling cannot be done with a cross throughout. If a cross throughout or a cross coupé was used with the lion's face surmounted it would be returned for excessive layering. A lion's face, jessant of a cross coupé would be acceptable, barring any conflict.

Range Master, Albion Device K-Albion (January/2006)

Argent, four gorges gules.

“Gorges” is a field treatment which begins in the center of the shield and spirals outward extending to all sides of the shield. It can not be used as a charge, although charges can be "in gorges" or an individual ordinary or charge such as a roundel may be tinctured as "gorges." The latter is not a period style, however, and should be avoided.
