IV. GRANDFATHER CLAUSE.....15

PREFACE¹

We, the Imperial Estates, do hereby adopt this Writ as Law in the Adrian Empire. This Writ lists those items which rise to the level of Law in the areas of Armigerous Rights, Regalia and Modes of Address, Orders and Awards, and Ministry Badges. All of these items have been approved and registered by the Imperial College of Arms.

I. ARMIGEROUS RIGHTS

- A. The right to display arms is reserved to armigers.
- B. Armigers are those who have either been granted the right to bear arms by the Crown or the Estates, such as by being granted the titles of Lord/Lady, Baron/Baroness, Viscount/Viscountess, Count/Countess, and Prince/Princess, or those who have earned the right to bear arms by virtue of being Knighted. Imperial, and Royal Crowns may grant to their subjects the right to bear arms without granting titles or Knighthoods.
- C. Non-Knightly armigers may display their arms on their person in any shape so long as it is no more than six inches on its longest edge.
- D. Knightly Peers have the further right to display their arms on a heraldic tabard.
- E. 2nd and 3rd level Knights, and Royal and Imperial Peers have the further right of livery.
- F. Any member may register arms against the day they shall be permitted to display them.
- G. Any armiger may display armory on period implements as approved by the Imperial College of Arms.

II. REGALIA AND MODES OF ADDRESS

A. THEORY

1. Chains of State

Chains of state are not regulated by law.

2. Coronets and Crowns

- a. All non-Chivalric nobility are entitled to regalia headgear;
 - i. Ranks of Baron and above are permitted a coronet or crown,
 - ii. Noble non-Chivalric ranks below Baron are permitted a circlet.
- b. The difference between a coronet and a crown is the rank of the person wearing it: Emperors, Empresses, Kings, Queens, Archdukes, Archduchesses, Dukes, and Duchesses all are entitled to a crown; all others so entitled wear a coronet. There is no stylistic difference; it is merely a matter of terminology.
- c. The difference between a coronet/crown and a circlet is that the former may have points, while the latter never does.
- d. There is no minimum or maximum size restriction on crowns and coronets.

¹ Footnotes denote Chancery notes, which offer background and clarification but do not in themselves rise to the level of law.

3. Restrictions

- a. None of the regalia or styles listed below is mandatory, for example, no one is required to wear that to which one is entitled; however, others who are not so entitled may be restricted from using such regalia or styles.
- b. Addressing someone with a form different from that listed for that member's station is neither prohibited nor discouraged, since forms of address are merely a way of showing respect.
- c. The Estates of a Kingdom may choose to further restrict or augment the regalia listed below, so long as such restriction or augmentation does not conflict with this list.

Awards which may be granted by Kingdom or Ducal Crowns may also be granted by Shire Crowns, subject to the prior approval of the Imperial Crown. Companions of these Orders may wear the badges as belt favors, pendants, or baldrics, and so forth. They are listed in descending order of precedence.

1. The Imperial Order of the Fleur-de-Lis

This Order was formerly known as the Order of the Protectors of the Dream. This Order is intended to honor those individuals whose contributions to the Empire are so great that they are deserving of being made members of the Imperial Family, but have not necessarily sat the Imperial Throne themselves. Members are appointed by a simple majority vote of the Imperial Estates and are invested with their titles by the Imperial Crown.

Members of this Order have the following rights and privileges:

- a. New members may be nominated from within the Order or by two members of the Imperial Estates. Any member of the Empire is eligible for admittance, whether they have been a past Imperial Crown or not.
- b. Members are appointed by a simple majority vote of the Imperial Estates and are invested with their titles by the Imperial Crown
- c. This Order grants no vote on any Estate, although individual members of this Order may hold Estate Votes of their own right.
- d. Companions of this Order have precedence as members of the Imperial Family, may use the courtesy title of Prince/ss, may be addressed as "Your Imperial Highness", and may wear a Coronet.
- e. Like any other person, Companions of this Order may nominate for the titles of Lord/Lady and Baron/ess for Imperial and Royal awards. However, as a special privilege of the Order, if the Local or Imperial Crown approves the nomination, the nominating member of the Order shall bestow the title.
- f. Companions of this Order may sit with Imperial Crowns as Peers and may approach them without bowing.

2. The Imperial Order of the Table Round

Argent, a chalice Or (White background with a gold goblet.)

3. The Imperial Order of Saint Joan

Argent, on a saltire Gules a lily Argent (White background with a red X extending to the corners, at the intersection of the X, a white lily.)

This Order grants precedence equal to that of Viscount and Viscountess (non-Founding). Candidates may petition for membership or may be approached by a Companion of the Order. Candidates must be female and hold at least one Knighthood in any discipline, and be approved by unanimous consent of the current membership of the Order.

4. The Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury

Or, a cross fleury voided Azure between four roses Proper (gold background with blue outlined cross centered and a rose in each corner).

This is a non-voting Imperial Order and membership grants the precedence of Viscount/Viscountess (non-founding).

The Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury was established by HIH Sir Karl von Katzburg to acknowledge the accomplishment of all Adrians who achieve Knightly rank in the four currently recognized disciplines. Combat, Ministry, Archery and the Arts/Sciences.

Upon achieving Knighthood in all four Adrian Knightly disciplines, a member is automatically inducted into this Imperial Order. The inductee may choose to hold an induction ceremony but this is not necessary. Induction is automatic. If a ceremony is desired, the crown or ruling noble may preside if there is no other member of the Order available.

The Imperial Crown shall, upon confirmation of rank by the local crown/ruling noble; publish Imperial Proclamation within 45 days of the accomplishment which describes the inductee and his or her achievements. The structure of the proclamation shall minimally contain the following information:

- a. The full current persona name of the inductee followed by their real name in parenthesis.
- b. The rank of the inductee in each discipline at the time of induction.
- c. The name of the subdivision in which the inductee took his or her qualifying Knighthood.
- d. A list of the persona names of all current members of the order.

The structure of the proclamation may be embellished or personalized by the Imperial Crown so long as the above information is included as described.

A member of the Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury may only be removed from the Order as part of Revocation of Membership, Banishment from the Empire or loss of Knightly rank. If Knightly rank is reinstated and the member is once again a Knight in all four disciplines as detailed above, membership in the order is reinstated simultaneously. No additional proclamation is required.

Membership in the Order shall be considered inactive for lapses in Adrian Membership Dues and will be fully reinstated upon payment of dues so long as no loss of rank has occurred.

Only members of the Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury may display the badge of the Order except on paper for purposes of description or documentation.

“Quad Knights” (The most common term used to describe members of the Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury) may augment their arms with the addition of one badge of the Order for each level of “Quad” Knighthood they have achieved.

Any member of the Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury may augment his or her armorial display with a single badge of the Order.

This means that no member of the Order may augment their arms with more than three badges of the Imperial Order of the Croix Fleury since there are currently only three levels recognized by The Adrian Empire and any quad Knight may display a single badge of the Order on their armorial display regardless of how many they are allowed.

The Escallop was chosen for similar reasons as it was used in period – as a sign of pilgrimage and/or the Crusades.

When an individual is made a member of The Order of the Escallop, they have the right to augment their personal arms with symbol of the Order. Membership in The Order of the Escallop grants no precedence, title or rank. This Order may be bestowed by any Crown upon verification of the requirements.
